Can blackberry classic use android apps

Updating the app version When converting the .apk file to a .bar file for the first time, the BlackBerry APK Packager tool sets the version of the package and application to 1.0.1.0 by default. For the app converted to support the required package and app version, you need to change the generated manifest. during the conversion, point the BlackBerry APK Packager tool to the modified manifest, and then perform the conversion again. Switch to Command Line Tools for Windows, then click the download link. Navigate and open the META-INF folder, then copy manifest.mf to the desired location. Click the Browse button corresponding to the Destination Folder text box, locate and select the folder where you want to save the resulting .bar file, then click OK. By continuing to use this site you agree to our use of cookies. For more information about the android.cfg file, see the topic Creating android.cfg file on the Creating Android Push-Enabled Applications page, located on the BlackBerry Developer website. Since the converted file runs in an Android runtime instance, for Kony Visualizer to differentiate between BlackBerry and Android devices, you need to write code. A user with a BlackBerry 10 device running OS version 10.2 or later can download and use an Android app converted this way. Converting from APK to BAR To convert an .apk file to a .bar file, do the following: Using your computer's file browser, access the folder where you extracted the BlackBerry Tools for Android Development, then launch the BlackBerry APK Packager. With the OS10.2 update for the BlackBerry 10 OS, BlackBerry introduced a new feature to support Android apps by converting them from .apk file to a .bar file. With the display of advanced settings, click the Browse button corresponding to the custom poster text box, locate and select the newly modified manifest.mf file, then click OK.
